TUESDAY EVENING, OCT. 11

The Symbolism Didn't Appeal.
"Charlie," sorrowfully sighed the young lady in the parlor of the concrete house on Washington avenue, "it is nearly 12 o'clock."
"Yes, Belinda," was the breathing response of her poetical companion, who was sitting on the sofa beside her, "the minute hand is drawing closer to the hour hand, and when the time of midnight is chimed the two hands will be even as one. Oh, darling Belinda," he continued as he literally simulated the action of the minute hand, "may not the coming together of those two hands be symbolical of us?"

She broke away and stood firmly on her feet. "No, Charles Henry Smith," she retorted angrily, "those two hands will remain as one but a single second, and then the minute hand will divorce itself and go on its way alone. No, Mr. Smith, a minute hand that doesn't stick isn't the kind of symbolism I want!"—Chicago News.

Dividing a Long Sermon.
Dr. Samuel Buell of the last half of the eighteenth century, who used to preach two or three hours, like Isaac Barrows, was ingenious in detaining his congregation. On one occasion, after preaching nearly two hours—as long as he could feel secure in the presence of all his hearers—he remarked that he was done preaching to sinners and that they were at liberty to go; the rest of his discourse would be addressed to good people.

A gentleman who once went to hear him stated that when the hourglass was nearly ready to be turned a second time from the commencement of his sermon he said, much to the relief of the person who related it, "Once more." After going on some eight or ten minutes longer he said, "To conclude," and after another about equal interval he said, "Lastly."

The gentleman added that he expected every moment to hear him say "Everlastingly."

He Came Down Light.
A Chicago board of trade man who was not in the habit of attending church was taking a walk one Sunday morning, and on coming to a church at the regular hour of service he decided to go in. As he entered the auditorium in which the pews were adjusted upon a sloping floor an usher stepped forward and, wishing to consult him as to location before conducting him to a sitting, politely inquired:

"Would you like to come down pretty well?"

Mistaking the inquiry to be an appeal for money, the board of trade man began to fumble through his pockets as he drawled:

"I'd like to, but I'm not prepared to come down very heavy, as 15 cents is all I have with me."—Harper's Magazine.

A Varnishing Tip.
When varnishing wood the work must be done in a warm room at a temperature of at least 75 degrees F. At a lower temperature the moisture in the air will give a milky and cloudy appearance to the varnish. On the other hand, at the higher temperature the moisture is not precipitated until the alcohol of the varnish has sufficiently evaporated to leave a thin smooth film of shellac. The durability and gloss are dependent on this.

The Blind Man's Lantern.
A blind man in Khoota (a Caucasian village) came back from the river one night bringing a pitcher of water and carrying in his hand a lighted lantern. Some one meeting him said: "You're blind. It's all the same to you whether it's day or night. Of what use to you is a lantern?" "I don't carry the lantern in order to see the road," replied the blind man, "but to keep some fool like you from running against me and breaking my pitcher."

His Peers.
"Pa, what does it mean to be tried by a jury of one's peers?"
"It means, my son, that a man is to be tried by a jury composed of men who are his equals or on an equality with him, so that they will have no prejudice against him."
"Then, pa, I s'pose you'd have to be tried by a jury of baldheaded men."

The Widow.
"In a town," said a life insurance official, "where life insurance was a rare thing a schoolteacher said to a little boy pupil:
"Tommy, define the word widow."
"A widow," Tommy answered, "is a poor woman with a large family of children who takes boarders."

Painfully Frank.
Wedderly—They say that a man and his wife grow to look alike after they have been married a few years. Now, my wife and I have been married ten years. Do you think we look alike?
Singleton—Yes, indeed. You both seem to have the same sad expression.

Might Have Been Worse.
Rheumatic Patient—Oh, doctor, I do suffer so with my hands and feet!
Cheery Doctor—My dear woman, only think what inconvenience you would have to suffer without them.

The Earth.
Tommy—Pop, does the earth go round?
Tommy's Pop—Yes, my son. But it wouldn't if it was divided among all the people who want it.—Philadelphia Record.

No man has yet discovered the means of giving successfully friendly advice to women—not even to his own.—Balzac.

STOP

Existing in some part of Alexandria that is undesirable, in a house that is out of repair, with few modern conveniences, bad heating arrangements, cramped in between close walls, with front steps right on the sidewalk, and no porches or lawns, and with a dark, damp cellar, etc., etc. Isn't this what a number of people are doing? Paying a good rent for it and losing just that much money every month. If this hits you, why don't you come out to Rosemont and

DESTRUCTION OF TREES.

With the chestnut tree blight not having gone far enough in its work of utterly destroying the tree in New Jersey to be yet matter of common knowledge, tree experts in the Summit vicinity say they have discovered signs that point also to the destruction of its companion tree, the hickory. Hickory trees in that vicinity and in Essex county have been exhibiting signs of the blight, the precise nature of which, however, remains unexplained. Experts are of the opinion that on examination it will be found that a fungus similar to the one lately discovered as the enemy of the chestnut, is attacking the hickory trees.

CHOKED TO DEATH.

A stiffly starched shirt bosom and neck band choked Frank A. Johnson to death in Hartford, Conn., as surely as a hangman's rope could have done it.

Johnson drove to the house of a friend, Frank Brinkman. Brinkman was out. Rain was falling and Johnson drove under the stable shed. Returning, Brinkman found Johnson apparently unconscious. A doctor pronounced him dead.

Medical Examiner Fuller said it was perfectly plain that Johnson had been strangled by his starched unyielding neckband and the top of the shirt bosom. Waiting in his wagon he had fallen asleep and his head had bobbed forward. Slowly the ironlike neckband circled like a garrote. It impeded the circulation in the great blood vessels of Johnson's neck until he was unconscious.

When his shirt was taken off a deep red impression circled Johnson's neck as if a rope had been drawn tight around it with great force. He was 40 years old and is survived by a widow and two children.

It is in time of sudden mishap or accident that Chamberlain's Liniment can be relied upon to take the place of the family doctor, who cannot always be found at the moment. Then it is that Chamberlain's Liniment is never found wanting. In cases of sprains, cuts, wounds and bruises Chamberlain's Liniment takes out the soreness and drives away the pain. Sold by W. F.
